

SEWERBY HALL
AND GARDENS

Edwardian children copied letters from Copy Books. Why don't you have a go with this version of a copy book page? Print out the sheets and trace over the faded letters to get used to them. Then try writing on the lined sheet without the faded lettering. Once you have got the hang of the letter shapes try writing something on a sheet of paper without any lines to guide you. If you don't have a printer you can draw some guidelines on a piece of paper and copy from the screen.

The page contains four sets of handwriting practice lines. Each set consists of three horizontal lines: a top line, a middle line, and a bottom line. Diagonal lines connect the top and bottom lines at regular intervals, creating a grid of slanted rectangular boxes. These boxes are intended for practicing letter formation and alignment.
